OUR ARTISTS

Nichole Bush

Co-Co started her business in 1999 as an artist following her passion for creating. It wasn't long before she began growing on her journey as a creator of jewelry, scrapbooks, fun lights, vintage travel trailers, furniture, clothes and altered art. With her experience in "repurposing," she has gained an eye* for unique treasures that create a story or meaning in her work, giving her designs a style that separates her pieces from other artists. After publishing her first how-to book "Vintage Revised Jewelry" in 2013 she began focusing on combining her love of creating and teaching. Being down to earth, getting dirty, and having a few good laughs is a great workday for this Texan.

Cindi Carey

Cindi Carey is an artist, metalsmith, designer, antique collector, and entrepreneur residing in Memphis, TN and Colorado Springs, CO. Cindi has been designing jewelry for over a decade. Her favorite materials include fine silver, precious & semi-precious stones, and she loves incorporating vintage elements.

She has collected and sold estate jewelry for over 25 years. Her designs show a love for nostalgia and individual style. Cindi is a highly sought after jewelry instructor in Memphis, and has studied with many renowned artists. In 2009 she explored new techniques in an artist's atelier in the south of France. While traveling through the United States, Spain, France, Italy, Puerto Rico, and Mexico with her husband of 26 years, Cindi has been inspired by many flea markets, estate sales, and antique sources, always finding some kind of treasure. It is the hunt that is exhilarating!

This past year, Cindi created & launched a new line, "Cowgirls Forever" for a Memphis boutique. It's all about sharing her passion, style, and spirit with others!

Tawnya Norton

Iowa native Tawnya Norton has collected unique treasures since she was a young girl. The daughter of traveling missionaries, she spent much of her youth acquiring ordinary discarded items and transforming them into personal mementos. The instinct to collect and repurpose directs her current designs as well. Whether made from vintage hardware, locket, or religious icons, Tawnya's jewelry reflects her love of the history behind the materials she finds. She is drawn most to objects that bare interesting textures and an aged patina, preferring to showcase their intrinsic beauty rather than trying to recreate it. Tawnya sells her original designs and offers various art related workshops at C'est Moi, her shop in Brentwood, Tennessee that specializes in accents for Maison & Moi. The shop's collections range from local art and home furnishings to funky junk and jewelry.

Kellie Montana

Her name may be Kellie Montana, but she's a Tennessee girl through and through. Raised on a farm in the rural small town of Clifton in Wayne County, the self-taught artist's popular colorful acrylic paintings most often consist of what she describes as "whimsical renderings of the ordinary." Which could mean a flower. Or a guitar. Or a cow. Or a dog. Or boots. Or a house. Or a series based on a homespun phrase such as, "If I Call You Darling Will You Make Me Pancakes?" Which is how the vivacious, petite brunette talks in real life, not just in a still life, once you get to know her just a little bit.

Since moving to Nashville in 1995, Montana's work has been displayed and sold at most of the area's juried fine art shows, including the prestigious Harding Fine Art Show. She has a slew of big-name corporate and celebrity clients who own her work: Hilton Hotels, the William Morris Agency, and celebrities such as Taylor Swift, Kelly Clarkson, John Hiatt, John Rich, Pam Tillis, Kenny Rogers, Naomi and Wynonna Judd, Pat Green and Jimmy Wayne. But she'll be the first to tell you that she sold her first 14 paintings -- the fruit of one day's work after buying a frustrated artist's acrylics and oils in an auction for $50 -- to admiring clients at her hair salon on Music Row in Nashville. She wakes up and goes into her studio every day at 7 am to find "something to make." Or, in another phrase she's fond of: "Life Isn't About Finding Yourself. Life Is About Creating Yourself." Besides juried art shows, Montana's original work is sold exclusively at C'est Moi boutique in Brentwood, Tennessee.
